"This is a stylish chardonnay which will unfold in increasing layers of richness and complexity over many years." 95 Points Stephen Wong MW,
The Real Review NZ, 2024 Vintage

There is a generosity to Rosie's Block 2025. Voluptuous, but beautifully contained; a core of ripe fruit held taut by a corset of bright acidity.

Perfumed lime blossom and flint lead into something more savoury. There is a silky, almost collagen-like texture — a luxurious glide, giving the palate weight without heaviness.

Pithy freshness provides the architecture. The wine moves effortlessly across the palate with the depth and momentum of a vast flowing river that never breaks her banks. Generous, but sleek and precise. Nothing is overblown.

Everything feels composed.

And then there is the length. Mouthwatering and lingering, it leaves you reaching for the glass again.

Long, elegant and assured. A modern Chardonnay embracing generosity without surrendering its shape.

"This is joyous... A sawdust sprinkle of oak continues to draw you in, and acidity dances in tango formation with classy oak, shimmering in class and sophistication. The wine finishes with fruit focus, rich in flavour but not beft. 95 Points." Shanteh Wale, Halliday Wine Companion
